PRIMARY ANTI-DRUG WEEK ACTIVITY

TRAVEL

In summer I went to Germany to study German for 2 months. I stayed at Schweinsbühl, it is a city in between mountains, it is very natural. The German people are very chilled, they always arrive on time and respect each other's privacy. Every day I took the bus home, the buses there are very quiet, everyone has headphones in their ears and keep to themselves. The streets are also very clean, everyone takes care of their own trash. I also got to experience burning trash, I burned wood and cleaned the streets.

At Easter, I went to Brussels in Belgium. There is no speed limit so my uncle drove at 180 km/h, and we arrived in Brussels after 4 hours. In Brussels I went to see the Manneken Pis, Royal Palace, Atomium and went to a garden, where I saw a lot of beautiful flowers.

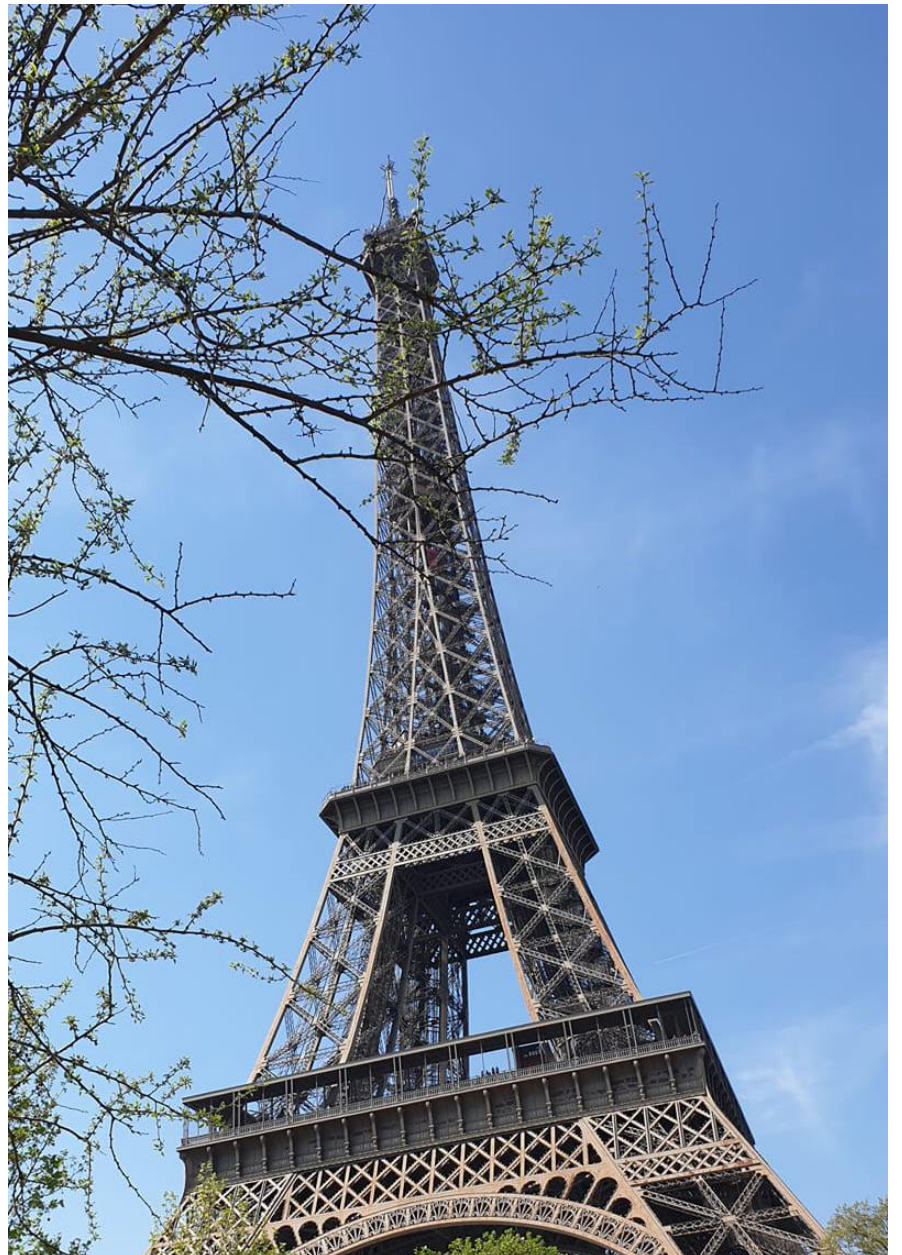

The next day I caught a train to Paris, the trip took just over 1 hour and we arrived at the Central Paris Station. In Paris the drivers are very crazy, they don't care about traffic laws and they drive with no seat belt on, which is very dangerous. The day I went was 2 days after Notre Dame caught fire, so I got to see the remains of the church. Next I went to the Eiffel Tower, afterwards my family had a small nap near the Eiffel Tower. There were guys trying to sell Eiffel Tower key-chains for 1 euro each, I liked them so I bought one, then I walked around and saw people selling them for 1 euro for 5 towers.

Next I went to Champs - Élysées where my cousin got a nice watch and I got to see nice shoes. When I was there an important person was arriving so there were a lot of policemen. After that my cousin decided to go and get drinks, I ordered Father Ginger Ale - it was my first time trying and I really liked it. After that I went to Sacré-Cœur and had dinner near there, I had a lot of foie gras in Paris, it tastes very good, there my uncle ordered a normal coke and it cost 10 euros (around 350 baht). Later that night I took the train back to Brussels and our car had an electrical problem so I had to go around and find people who could help us.

The next morning I drove to Roermond, Netherlands I went to a designer outlet and bought a Gucci belt. I also got some shoes there. I really liked ginger ale so I ordered it again but this time it didn't taste very good. Later I took a bus to Berlin, the capital of Germany. That day it was the first of May and I experienced people protesting around the streets. I went to the Berlin Wall and took some pictures and crossed the bridge to West Berlin. There was a music festival there and nobody drove. I then went back to Schweinsbühl, and later went to Cologne and flew back to Thailand. In conclusion I want to tell you that if you ever get a chance to go to Paris don't buy the keychains immediately, wait for a good offer.

MY TRIP TO GERMANY

Believe in Pink

Hello all my lovely readers! I think that many of you guys have been looking for a place to hang out with friends and take photos. So, in this article I'm going to take you through some of the hit hot cafés in Siam.

1. House of Eden (@Siam Discovery)

The café is decorated in a peach and pink tone which comes in the concept of "The Eden Garden" which will make you feel as if you are sitting in Eden. The café gives out a cosy vibe with pink, peach and rose gold interiors.

2. Too Good for You (@Siam Square One)

This café is also known as the hidden place because the entrance to the café is just a small door but as soon as you enter you will feel like as if you've just entered into another dimension. The highlight of this café is the floral wall which is decorated with neon lights which gives out a chic vibe.

3. Seoulcial Club (@Siam Square, soi 3)

This café gives you a Korean atmosphere as soon as you step into the café. The interior decoration is really beautiful; it gives you a very luxurious feeling. The floral chandelier and the pink and gold furniture makes the perfect combination.

4. Pink Planter Café (@Siam Square, soi 7)

It is located on the 3rd floor of matchbox. This café is decorated in pink which matches the tone of matchbox. This café gives Korean vibes. Before going up to the café on the 3rd floor, the first 2 floors of the matchbox shop is full of clothes and cute accessories for shopping.

5. Hello Kitty House (@Siam Square one building)

The café is full of KITTY decorations which is really adorable. As always it is decorated in red and pink following the Kitty theme. The highlight of this café is the food which is decorated with Kitty too.

Good Mythical Morning!

Hi!! First, let me introduce you to the new part of the EP Newsletter, The YouTube section! This section is all about YouTubers, and what they do on their channel, so let's get on to the main stuff shall we?

You might have heard the name 'Rhett and Link', but do you know who they are or what they do? No...you don't? That's ok. LET'S TALK ABOUT THAT, then.

GOOOOD MYTHICAL MORNING! (or...whatever the time it is) to you, mythical beasts and non-mythical beasts out there. The YouTubers of this month are Rhett and Link from 'Good Mythical Morning', the channel that has been on YouTube for almost 10 years and has over 15 million subscribers! They are really famous for the 'Will it ...' series which have been on their channel since season 5. They also do a lot of reacting videos and other challenges, but the 'Will it ...' series have to be what they're best known for. In the series, the mythical crew will switch out the main ingredients from the food mentioned in the title with something else, and Rhett and Link will have to try it and give their responses. For example, in the episode Will It Cereal, instead of putting in normal cereal they decided to try Goldfish cracker, Skittles, and some weird stuff like instant ramen and meatloaf. Not all of them taste good, but there are some food items that unexpectedly go well together, according to them at least.

That's all folks! I really love spending time on YouTube watching funny videos, and I want to share the work of many talented YouTubers on here. There are tons of interesting channels on YouTube. There are animation, cooking, vlogging, reacting and let's play channels. If this month's YouTuber isn't really your style then stay tuned for the next one which I'll give you a hint; He's an animator.

Boy's Review: Five Feet Apart

Five Feet Apart is a dramatic and romance movie. This movie is about a girl named Stella. She spends most of her time living in a hospital as a cystic fibrosis patient. Her life is full of boundaries, and restrictions which block her from doing things other teenagers do in their daily lives. She then meets Will, another CF patient and their connection and relationship grows throughout the movie while controlled by the restrictions that they are not allowed to touch each other, and also have to stay six feet apart from each other for their own safety.

While watching the movie, it reminds me of many things in our daily life which I think we have overlooked. For example; many people overlook simple but important things in their life which these patients don't have a chance to have such as a healthy and happy life. Another thing is, we should spend our time with our family as much as we possibly can because we don't know when we're going to die and if we manage our time well enough, we will not be sad when we don't have that chance anymore. It also reminds me that sometimes we need to step past our fears and restrictions to do the right thing at the right time. And if you get a chance to do something that is good and you like it, if you miss it, you don't know when it will come back. There is nothing that is permanent, everything has an end, even our lives. So, this reminds me that we should live our lives to the fullest.

In my opinion, this movie is a good movie and I recommend this movie for teenagers because this movie is not only about drama and romance thing, but it also contains knowledge and ideas to think about.

Girl's Review: Five feet apart

Five feet apart is a film that was shown in March 2019. This film is about a young couple (Stella and Will) who have Cystic Fibrosis or CF disease and fall in love with each other. The rule for both of them is staying 5 feet away from each other, or otherwise they could get infected. They can't even touch each other, hold hands, or do things like the normal couples do. Both of them find ways to treat their disease together, so they have a lot of good times together. Towards the end, when their feelings for each other are getting stronger, they decide to go outside the hospital to the park, and hang out together. Before they go back to hospital, Stella falls down through the ice and she loses consciousness. Will has to do CPR to help Stella, but because of their disease they aren't allowed to touch, let alone do mouth to mouth. Will has to decide whether to help her regain consciousness knowing that, his actions could kill her.

In my view as a woman in this story, this film is amazing. The first part of the film was funny, enjoyable and romantic. The last part was very dramatic and no one expected that they will be leaving each other, but it's still the best way for both of them. Although Stella recovered from the disease, Will was still sick and they cannot be together like a normal couple. This film makes me felt very touched in my heart. We live our lives always hoping for a perfect life, but in reality, our lives have many problems, and sometimes the dilemmas we face will have unhappy endings. No one will live forever, eventually everyone will disappear just like this story. This film can represent all CF patients that have problems with love, sometimes the thing we want is just unreachable. Although the ending is not what I would like to see, I still think that this movie is the best of movie in 2019.

Movie Fact: Five Feet Apart

In the movie Five Feet Apart, Will and Stella have got a disease called Cystic Fibrosis or CF. CF is a chronic disease or an inherited disorder that someone would get if their parents have the mutated gene and the gene is inherited to them. Normally mucus is slippery and thin but CF will affect the body to produce mucus that is thick and sticky which might plug up tubes in the body and badly affect most of the body systems. Some of the problems people with CF will have are problems with breathing, infections in the lungs and digestive problems.
